

This ticket, printed on a transparency, is given to solvers after they present their model for Coinuka and their sport is successfully identified.

If you can't out print transparencies, just remember that anything white on the ticket would be completely transparent, so if you print it out on paper maybe a strong light source to look through it would help, or just cut holes in the white parts if you're very handy with a razor or a small pair of scissors.

