HINGHAM
ASTROS
META

The athletes from the Hingham Astros took a long journey through space to come to Boston, and each recorded their journey with one of the below charts. They tracked the letters of the alphabet, twice, in the stars around the perimeter of the charts and they marked (with lines connecting the stars) the path of their name in grey and the path of their mission in black. In each chart, the paths never touched two different stars with the same letter. In addition to giving a historical record, the ships logs also aided in discovering of the piece of equipment they'll be playing as in the BAPHLball championship game tonight.
