You talk.

There is a pause. A woman says "take off the blindfold."

Your blindfold is removed and you find yourself staring at two men and a woman. One of the men is wearing a suit. The others wear military uniforms.

"Your information agrees with ours," says the woman. "We've had a secret team working on this problem for longer than you would believe. Decades, in fact. But the latest threat has evolved so fast that we've had to race to come up with a response in time."

Your infiltration plan is working very well indeed, says the Voice in your head. Keep these people talking and stay ready.

"But we have an experimental plan to help you. It sounds ridiculous but our expert here assures us that it's real. So we're going to test his plan on you. Unless," she says, "you would rather be killed. Again."

Okay, says the Voice, do exactly what we tell you, and we'll all get out of this alive.

If you do what the human general tells you, turn to page E1.

If you do what the Voice in your head tells you, turn to page E2.
