

SYMBOLS OF STRENGTH

Exploring a cave, you are amazed by the variety of intricate paintings on the walls. It appears that a terrible tragedy once befell this tribe, but in their darkest hour, the people rallied with messages of hope.

NOTE: This puzzle must be solved in the vicinity of Waterplace Park.

First, find these:

- A) Building an earth involves more scaffolding than I thought.
- B) These hopes and dreams are sweet, but the second and seventh are a bit redundant.
- C) Perhaps the Beatles can heal this broken heart.
- D) Are those the author's initials, or do they just stand for "bunny rabbit"?
- E) A unicorn!? I didn't know those existed! I bet I'll never see one again as long as I live.
- F) Cool, another unicorn.
- G) I'd like two, please.
- H) Most constellations are seen at night, but the "anchor of the sky" only comes out in daylight.
- I) Yes, I named my ladybug "Ladybug." Is that weird?
- J) I left you a sugar cookie on the red table.
- K) At the space program's peak, we sent up fourteen flags, a heart, and an ad for gun control.
- L) Our love is like that of two jagged carrots.

Then, on those six, find these:

- 1) Annie, when writing down your lyrics, you might want to make “tomorrow” more visible.
- 2) The world would never accept their love, so Fido and Frisky met secretly at night.
- 3) You can see this football game so much more clearly from the Hope Section.
- 4) This is our underwater tribute to an Aretha Franklin song.
- 5) Recipe for a little rainbow at sea: lots of raindrops plus nouns popping out of the sun.
- 6) Even as his habitat melts, this penguin believes in a brighter tomorrow.
- 7) The two girls bonded over their love of giant shoes.
- 8) Looks like someone’s seen the Wizard and isn’t so cowardly anymore.
- 9) In next week’s episode, Troy and Abed have a picnic, but ants invade!
- 10) Hark the herald Pooh Bear sings, glory to the green hunny...
- 11) Red, white, and blue Trivial Pursuit is much faster. You only need three wedges.
- 12) The rare stars and stripes butterfly eludes my net again!
- 13) You’d be surprised how hard it is to tattoo letters onto eagle wings.
- 14) “The power of change” looks a lot like a globe with a psychedelic ribbon on top.
- 15) ... and they fly lowest when Charlie Brown gets them caught in a tree.
- 16) Lean over further, palm tree, I’m trying to paint the ocean.
- 17) One of the three birds flew down to investigate the source of the yellow clouds.
- 18) Nine giants “united in peace,” some of whom can walk on water.
- 19) Noah made sure to bring the giraffes.
- 20) Nine grapes, nine blueberries, nine raspberries, and nine... cyanberries, maybe?
- 21) Poor Chris. His name is too long, and his letters are too big.
- 22) In this course, we’ll learn about cosines, logarithms, but first... the pineapple.
- 23) Help! I’m knee deep in lime juice and fleeing from some sort of pirate/parrot creature!
- 24) Numbers 1 through 19 may have all been failures, but this one was worth it.
